Having taken such a foothold in Manchuria, Russia has fought silently but forcefully against getting out, and diplomatists have seen for a long time that it would take force to make her withdraw. The rebellion in China, with the invasion by the troops of Europe and the United States, gave Russia her opportunity to seize upon 'Manchurian towns and garrison pany, which is pushing matters in order them with her troops until she controlled the big province. Japan, unhappy at the result of her war with China, Russia having forbidden her to keep the fruits of victory, looked on this invasion of the East with angry eyes. Russia demanded that China cede to her the province of Manchuria, and provided a secret treaty for the Chinese to sign. It was admitted by the other nations that the signing of the treaty would lead to the gravest complications, probably to the parfused to sign the treaty.

The note continued that "the government of the United States desires to express its sense of the impropriety, inexpediency and even extreme danger to the interest of China of considering any private territorial or financial arrangements, at least without the full knowledge and approval of all the powers now engaged in negotiation. With the removal of the fatty matter from the neck the size was much reduced. but it was not an incentive of vanity that caused Mrs. Shipley, who is quite a large woman, to undergo the operation. Had a reduction for appearance sake been the desired object Mrs. Shipley would probably have submitted to the easier, if probably less effective, way of being treated by a massage and facial beauty artist. Mrs. Shipley had, however, no such motive in view, and it was merely to correct a physical defect, causing much suffering, that she decided to have the fat removed. The excessive collection of fat beneath the chin had increased as time went on. and the pressure upon the right and left carotid arteries became more pronounced. From round and healthy arteries these important blood vessels were pressed flat by the growth of fat until, at times, the flow of blood to the brain from the aorta-the artery that leads upward from the left ventricle of the heart-was greatly impeded. This caused imperfect respiration, and, from what can be learned, Mrs. Shiplev suffered from periods of unconscious-

No time was lost, and upon Wednesday afternoon she was given an administration of ether, and the operation was performed by three of the surgeons connected with the hospital. For two days Mrs. Shipley remained at the hospital with her neck in a plaster cast, and then she was taken to her home. She is still confined to her bed, but sent

STILL IN A TANGLE.

Democratic Situation in Sullivan County Causes Much Resentment.

SULLIVAN, Ind., Feb. 17 .- The election officials in the Dugger precinct at the recent Democratic primary to-day awarded the election of recorder to Welman Lackey over W. L. Hunt by a majority of three votes. Much hard feeling has been engendered, and Hunt has filed notice of contest. The shady affair of Friday night is still much discussed. County Chairman Taylor and Charles D. Hunt, an election official, were in the courthouse, and the doors were. forced by James R. Riggs and three friends of Lackey from Cass township. Hunt and Taylor say they were canvassing the vote, but many question their authority to do so.
